

Research to Improve Body Image

The Department of Psychiatry is evaluating an innovative computer program designed to improve the way young women feel about their bodies.

Participants will complete a 10-minute computer task once a week, for four weeks, at a central location on the Stanford Campus.

Participants will receive a $5.00 gift cards to Starbucks ® after completing each of the THREE follow-up assessments.

We are currently recruiting female Stanford students, undergraduate and post-graduate, ages 18-30 who want to feel better about their bodies.

For more information, please contact Clare Purvis (below).

If you have any question about research or your rights as a research study subject, please contact the Stanford University Institutional Review Board (IRB) to speak to an informed individual who is independent of the research team at (650)725-5393 or call toll free at 1-800-630-2004.

Clare Purvis

(650)725-5393
ckppsyd@stanford.edu